where we have a time to do a health promotion kind of visit... which means we would address body mass index and health behaviors, health knowledge, and behavior, and status for... physical activity, and nutrition, and actually also, tobacco use, but that’s not about the obesity guidelines. We would do that, and our... our process is such that it is in a line with - that’s probably the next question - but we do that, we have embedded this in all of our client records, so that that becomes part of our conversations over either one visit or multiple visits during the time that we know them. It’s our policy that those be assessed and recorded.

1. OK. On a scale of 1 to 5, with 1 being “very little knowledge” and 5 being “superior knowledge”, how would you rate yourself with regards to your knowledge of the obesity guidelines?

2. I would say probably 3...?

1. OK, and how long has your agency incorporated these guidelines in the practice?

2. We started with... just about 3 years ago.

1. OK, now you did mention somewhat about some of the changes that have been made within your organization with regards to your records and so forth, but as you think about policy, system, environmental changes, um... could you elaborate on some of those in a little more detail?

2. I probably did that a little in the first answer, with what you asked me, but... the policy change that we made here was, as I mentioned in the beginning... the first answer that I gave you... was the issue of body mass index, physical activity, and nutrition would be addressed with everyone. That was an internal policy. And we then also engaged in training for the staff, so that they would feel more comfortable addressing this with people. And we also trained them on motivational interviewing, so that they would be able to more easily facilitate change in their clients... or help the client think about barriers to change and thinking about how they could move forward. So we did that. We also provided them with some materials to use that were easy... we developed them here... we felt that they were appropriate for the clients and would... for example, for... if we were dealing with adults, we would have a little different type
